FCC CHAIRMAN PAI TO PRESENT AWARDS FOR ADVANCEMENT IN ACCESSIBILITY AT THE 2018 M-ENABLING SUMMIT

BETHESDA, MD (March 5, 2018) – The organizers of the 2018 M-Enabling Summit are pleased to announce that the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) will be returning to present the FCC Chairman's Awards for Advancement in Accessibility (Chairman's AAA) at the M-Enabling Summit on June 12 from 4:45 pm till 5:30 pm.

Ajit Pai, Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, is confirmed to deliver the keynote address to open the evening's awards ceremony. Ajit Pai has served as Chairman of the FCC since January 2017 and was most recently re-nominated by President Trump to serve another five-year term in October 2017.

With the continual evolution of technology and Pai's plans for 5G connectivity advancements and applications for the future, the FCC has played a leading role in advancing accessibility innovation and competition in the field of information and communication technologies. This is including but not limited to the involvement of key participants including ICT industry professionals, advocacy organizations and accessibility experts.

This year's Summit program will focus on consumer technology innovations and market advancements, with over 120 speakers, private sector leaders, app developers, policy makers, mobile accessibility experts and disability advocates sharing their knowledge and experience to attendees. Confirmed presenters include high-level representatives of leading industry related organizations facilitating the accessible technology sector.
